

Independent Learning in A Level Sociology

After each lesson, in addition to completing any set work, a pro-active, independent learner would...

- Ensure that notes are completed and filed suitably in a folder or book.
- Catch up on any missed lessons before the next lesson.
- Read the relevant textbook pages and annotate lesson notes with additional information.
- Use their student checklist sheets to map learning against the requirements of the specification for each topic being studied: class notes → independent notes → revision.
- Make a list of things not fully understood to be reviewed, and discuss this with a peer in the first instance before approaching a teacher.
- E-mail or speak to their class teacher to arrange a meeting time for further clarification of any work they are unsure of; alternatively, attend the lunchtime Sociology Surgery Session.
- At the end of each 'mini topic', create a mind map to review all of the content and see the bigger picture, applying examples from the news/history to strengthen AO2 skills, and adding evaluation using P.E.R.V.E.R.T to strengthen AO3 skills.
- Continue to purple pen and redraft marked work and return to their class teacher.
- Maintain a list of learning points from reviewed/marked work and regularly review this list.
- Seek out additional sources of questions on areas of weakness and complete and self-mark questions with a mark scheme before asking for feedback from your teacher.
- Read the textbook chapter on the next topic before the next lesson.

Stretch yourself

Read /listen to the news regularly and find one article that has linked to a topic you are learning. Explain this article with reference to Sociological perspectives and think about the impact of the issue for institutions within society.
